

1544 reversed printing focus stencil grid is a large grid of pixels that when compensated or reflected into a smaller size they connect and with reason to provide the connections in circuits with in a molecular photo printing said to use small stencils to print smaller circuits in an adjusted dimension with an emulsion photo fusion process Copyright © Christopher Gabriel Brown 2018