

1695 in-precievable compression is a un noticeable time difference loss to assist in compression and data lag of operations and conduction in code or conversion copyright © 2019 Christopher Gabriel brown patent abstract utility