

895 cloud on chips is any such amplified start and finish direction of processing that holds a building echo of data such as a galaxy operation where to say in one code that the predecessor may be an expensive system that makes code and related parts of information that goes down river for other processing Copyright © 2016 Christopher G Brown