

script patterns and repetitive computations multiplied by a larger script. to divide or multiply one large process into sub processes for a real time application.

copyright crioner.com

