

1018 mental illness derived from narcotics including lsd is the known cause of many induced chemical imbalances to correct any such change of a long period of time would be to induce an alternative state of wellness as another chemical balance to correct the first balance over time this is concluded with out of balance and in balance times of medication and wellness a study of my own kind Copyright © Christopher g Brown 2017