

1216 hyper directional threading is a simple beat and pulse of operating code that transforms any such sequence of in and out for a unified measurement of any such arranged pulse of computations Copyright © 2017 Christopher g brown