

1236 hybrid incorporated data dedicated rental satellite service and expanded network access signal protocol is a internet origin of routing to a particular place of any such packets of information then as soon as the signal comes close enough to the target it will then convert to a wireless signal to broadcast to the receiver and back again through a combination routing utility copyright © 2017 christopher gabriel brown patent pending abstract utility