1299 Network linking chip is a unlooped firewall embedded device for security and data integrity in a data center end start point copyright © 2018 christopher gabriel brown patent abstract utility