

1330 anomaly report service is a service hardware and translation equipment that helps artificial devices understand seeds of change and occurrences in the issue of a change as a compensation equation and a reference base for service like a wind pattern change to help wind mills capture more energy during the windiest part of the day from what direction copyright © 2018 christopher gabriel brown patent abstract utility