

1410 chip compound direction printers is a machine that will aid in the building of a vertical and horizontal wafer of chips in a faster more compact size while printing in multiple stages of mediums in a series of layers to print horizontal and vertical to arrange in a more efficient manner Copyright © 2018 Christopher Gabriel Brown