

1517 data center secure wireless multiple external modular format is a hardware driven by driver format that excludes the chassis location and provides ports that transfer the data in and out wirelessly with a header data packet that includes a specific device for inclusion in a data center for wireless alliance computing copyright (c) christopher g brown 2018